

Bill Downard named '62 yearbook editor

By JOHN CATES

Bill Downard, a junior from Cincinnati, Ohio, has been named editor of Phase, the college yearbook, for the 1962 edition.

Downard, a history major, and newcomer to the yearbook staff here, said that at present the staff is not complete, but that he and Mr. James O'Brien, faculty advisor of PHASE are working to fill the positions left open on the staff by graduation.

Downard will be assisted by Pat Bresnahan, assistant editor for the second year, and by Mike Thoele, copy editor. Thoele is also associate editor of Stuff.

Downard's job will entail supervising the production of what last year was a highly criticized and this year a highly praised publication. He will attempt to follow the pattern set by last year's staff, headed by Dick Vogt, which produced a yearbook which has almost unanimously been called the best Phase ever.

"We will begin work as soon as possible," said Downard, "in order to obtain all possible material on this year's football season. However, we will no doubt be short-handed. Those interested in working for the yearbook are invited to contact me, at 125 Noll, or Pat Bresnahan, the assistant editor."

Downard is a 1959 graduate of Cincinnati Roger Bacon high school, where he served as editor of the yearbook and participated in varsity football.

Debate team schedules five meets; to open against Butler on Dec. 2

By LEONARD PALICKI

Under the supervision of Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli, the college's debating team will have its first meet on Dec. 2 against Butler university at Indianapolis. Mr. Cappuccilli, who is the moderator of the team, will coach the team on this year's topic: "Resolved that labor unions be under the jurisdiction of anti-trust legislation."

The team will also debate at Ball State, University of Illinois (Navy Pier), Purdue university and Southern Illinois university later in the present school year.

This junior varsity team consists of twelve members at present. They are captain Michael Reinhart, Donald Davia, Frank Regan, Joseph Reilly, Ronald Kratochvil and James Torrence.

Freshman elections held this week

By RUSSELL CARSON

This week the freshmen of St. Joe's choose their officers for the school year of 1961-62. Campaigning has been going on for over a week now, a fact that is clearly evident from the multitude of clever posters on the walls and bulletin boards and in windows. A little personal-room to room, hall to hall campaigning has also been an interesting feature.

Eleven freshmen are running for office this year. Out for the presidency are Ralph Dixon, Terry Sroka and Ed Bara. Up for vice president are Tom O'Brien and Paul J. Corsaro. John O'Rielly, Terry Wall and Jack Lambke are running for secretary, and Damien Christopher, Tom Wells and Jack Halpin are trying for treasurer.

On Monday at 8:00 p.m. the candidates gave short speeches at a convocation in the auditorium. These talks served to get the voters acquainted with the candidates, and helped make up their minds as to whom they would vote for.

The balloting took place on Wednesday at 11:00 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. and from 5:00 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. in the cafeteria. The vote counting started at about 7:00 p.m. the same day, with a simple majority determining the winners.

If some offices were so closely contested that there was no simple majority, voting for these offices will again take place today at the same times and place. Election this time will be by plurality, i.e., the candidate with the greatest number of votes will win.

The sophomores are running this year's election under the supervision of the student council election committee.

Glee club to present concert with Minister, O. parish choir

The college Glee club will give its second concert of the year Saturday evening, Nov. 18, at 7:15 p.m. in the college auditorium. Joining with the St. Joe gleemen will be the choir of St. Augustine's parish, Minister, Ohio.

The director of the Minister choir is Mr. Luke B. Knapke, a classmate of Fr. Lawrence Heiman, director of the St. Joe Glee club. Both were members of the St. Joe class of 1938. Mr. Knapke has been active in musical affairs since his college days and succeeded his father in his present position. His brother, Fr. Paul Knapke, C.P.P.S., is rector of St. Charles seminary, Carthage, O.

Saturday's concert will feature light music such as "Dry Bones," "It's a Grand Night for Singing," etc.

The first half of the concert will feature the Minister choir, and the St. Joe singers will occupy the second half of the program. The two groups will combine their efforts to conclude each half of the show.

The St. Joe section of the concert will feature freshmen soloists Kenney Sweet, Bill Mohan, Pablo Couttenya, Pete Saxton and Jim Ross.

The glee club's first appearance of the year was at the President's Reception, Oct. 22.

On Dec. 10 the Glee club will present its annual Christmas concert in the auditorium. They will be joined at that time by the Marian college glee club from Indianapolis.

The climax of first semester Glee club activities will be a Milwaukee-Chicago trip on Dec. 16-17. In conjunction with the Alverno college chorus of Milwaukee they will present Handel's Messiah at Alverno Dec. 16 and at Orchestra hall in Chicago Dec. 17.

Kreyche to talk at Creighton U.

Dr. Robert J. Kreyche, professor of philosophy and chairman of the philosophy department at St. Joseph's college, will deliver the Aquinas address at Creighton university, Omaha, Neb., on Nov. 16.

He will speak on "The Catholic Undergraduate and the Existential Revolt," a subject which he has treated during the past two years in talks at Xavier college in Chicago and St. Louis university. Both talks were reprinted by Holt-Dryden and given national distribution.

Dr. Kreyche is the author of "Logic for Undergraduates," published in 1954 and revised in 1961.

'The Far Off Hills'

CP's, Woods combine Friday

St. Mary-of-the-Woods college players and the St. Joe Columbian Players will combine Friday and Saturday to produce Lennox Robinson's Irish comedy "The Far Off Hills." Friday at 7:30 p.m. the play will be given in the St. Joe auditorium, and Saturday at 2 and 7:30 p.m. it will be given at the Woods.

Sister Mary Olive, S.P. and Mr. Willard Walsh, heads of the two participating theatre groups, are directing the production. Student directors are Kathi Martin of the Woods and Pat Bresnahan of St. Joe. The cast consists of Woods women Jana O'Keefe, Judith Johnson, Ellen Wierdak, Bridget Walsh and Traci Alig, and CP's Huck Quigley, Mike Halloran, Chuck Bowling, Frank Gerstle and Rudy Diblik. All the Joemen participants are freshmen.

The simple story centers around Marian Clancy, the eldest daughter of the motherless Clancy family. She resists her desire to enter the convent to stay at home until her father, Patrick, has had an operation for cataracts and her two younger sisters, Pet and Ducky, are educated and out in the world. With the entrance of the gay Suzie Tynan and her handsome nephew, Pierce Hegarty, however, the play begins to move toward a happy ending.

This play, first produced by Arthur Shields at the Abbey theatre in Dublin, had in its cast the famed Barry Fitzgerald.

This is the first time that the St. Mary-of-the-Woods and St. Joe drama groups have combined. They have rehearsed separately during the weeks and together on weekends.

Famed violinist

Elaine Skorodin to appear Nov. 20

Miss Elaine Skorodin, young concert violinist, will appear in the St. Joseph's college auditorium Monday evening, Nov. 20 at 8:00 p.m. in conjunction with the college's Auditorium series.

Since the age of ten, when she first appeared as a concert violin soloist, Miss Skorodin has appeared throughout the United States and earned high praise wherever she has gone. Her appearances include solo performances with the Grant Park Symphony, National Symphony of Washington, D.C., St. Louis Symphony and the Chicago Symphony.

Miss Skorodin has been widely acclaimed for her unusual ability and musicianship. Conductors with whom she has appeared have commended her artistry and predicted a bright future for her.

She was graduated with honors from Roosevelt university, having received her bachelor and masters degrees in music. During her studies and since Miss Skorodin has won numerous awards such as presentation in recitals by the Friday Morning Music club of Washington, D.C. and in Orchestra hall by the Society of American Musicians.

Of Miss Skorodin, the Chicago Daily News said, "Her youth and attractiveness to the eye didn't obscure the fact that she played the violin with a mature man's fullness of tone, and a breath of understanding that made beautifully schooled technique merely the starting point of her music, not the end."

Mixer set for Saturday night

The second, and apparently the last, mixer of the year for St. Joe students will be held in the Rec hall Saturday, Nov. 18, from 8:30-11:30.

According to Jerry Mueller, co-chairman of the Student Council dance committee, eight girls schools have been invited to attend the mixer. However, Mueller was not sure which schools would actually attend.

Girls have been invited from Mundelein, Xavier, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Nazareth, St. Francis of Joliet, Calumet center, Marian and Rosary colleges.

The Chicago club's "penny carnival" will provide afternoon entertainment for the students and these girls who decide to attend.

There are no other mixers scheduled for this year, Mueller said. He added that only date dances are planned for the rest of the year.

If infirmary needs new beds, college, not SC, must buy them

For the second consecutive year nurse Granfield, the head of the college health center, has requested that six beds on the first floor of the infirmary be replaced. For the second consecutive year no positive action has resulted.

These six beds, two-thirds of those available to student-patients in the health center, need replacement because they cannot, as hospital beds should, be raised at the head and foot.

Five of the beds do raise at the head. But they can be raised only through actual lifting by the nurse, with the patient in the bed—a severe and unnecessary strain.

The cost of the new beds would be only $99.50 apiece. Yet for two years no one on campus has been willing to supply the needed funds, a small sum compared to many other campus expenditures.

The Administration budget calls for the replacement of one bed per year. Now it has been suggested that the college and the Student Council share the expense of replacing all the beds at once.

Neither of these methods is adequate.

Since we are not to have a new health center for a few years, it is essential that Dwenger hall be equipped as fully as possible. Though all the beds may not always be in use, it is imperative that they be available when needed.

But it should not be necessary for the Student Council to provide funds for the project. If, as the college catalogue says, "At St. Joseph's emphasis is placed on health and physical fitness," then surely it is the obligation of the college to provide adequate facilities for insuring this aim. And, as the catalogue also states, the right to use of the health center is paid for as part of tuition, a fee which goes directly to the college treasury, and not as part of the student union fee, which is given to the Council.

If the Council feels motivated to donate a bed to the health center, fine. But the use of Council funds for the carrying out of this administration function is uncalled for, now or next spring, whether there are excess funds or not.

The Council complaints committee should make this point clear to the Administration. If they choose not to purchase the beds, then some affiliated group such as the National Parents' club or the Alumni association should be asked to donate the beds.

In any event the beds should be purchased now—and not by the Student Council.

Philbrick stresses communist threat to U.S. security

By JERRY MESERVEY

On Nov. 7, 30 members of the St. Joseph's college Y.C.S. traveled to Lafayette, to hear Herbert Philbrick talk on the "Techniques of Combating Communism."

Mr. Philbrick, who for nine years was a member of the communist party in the role of conterspy for the FBI, and who is the author of the book, "I Led Three Lives," began his talk by stressing the greatness of the danger of communism today. In doing so he quoted J. Edgar Hoover as saying, "Our country is the priceless goal of communism," and "communism USA is an integral part of international communism."

Mr. Philbrick went on to say that although there are only 10,000 communists in the United States, those communists are of the hard-core caliber and they will do everything in their power to overthrow the American government.

The philosophy of the new communist boss, Gus Hall, according to Philbrick, is that "the end justifies the means." Therefore, the communists today feel that "anything goes," and 10,000 communists with this philosophy can certainly be a powerful group, Philbrick said.

How can this problem be solved? How can we combat Communism? "We must begin," said Philbrick, "by ourselves." The United Nations has failed in Hungary, in Poland, and now it is failing in Laos. The peoples of these countries have been confused, and by the time they realized that communism actually was, it was too late, he said.

"Knowledge, education, information—this is what we need to combat the communists." This is how we can help ourselves. We must not confuse ourselves about the real meaning of communism and its dangers, said Philbrick.

Right now one-third of the world is under communist control, and Mr. Philbrick made the blunt statement that if the communist regime continues to grow as rapidly as it has in the past, we in the United States will be under communist control by 1973.

But Philbrick believes that if we study communism, its history, its philosophy, and especially its tactics of infiltration and subversion, and if we organize ourselves and support others in their work against communism, the advance of communism can be stopped.

Dr. Curtis MacDougall to lecture on freedom of press, discuss 'Hoaxes'

The second lecture in the Visiting Author Program will have both its lighter and its serious side. At 7:30 on Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, Dr. Curtis MacDougall will lecture in the college auditorium on "Freedom of the Press" and, after a coffee break, will preside over a discussion of his book, Hoaxes, Hoaxes, twice published in paperback, is now on sale at the college bookstore.

Dr. MacDougall is presently professor of journalism at the Medill school of journalism, Northwestern university. Last week, STUFF offered a series of faculty comments on Hoaxes. This covered the lighter side of Dr. MacDougall's visit which, STUFF guarantees, will be no hoax, as was the April 1, 1958 issue of STUFF, a likely topic for discussion on Dec. 5.

Turning now to the more serious side of Dr. MacDougall's visit, there are a number of points which should be taken up in the lecture and discussion. Everyone realizes that, in practice, a free press is one of the great sources of information by which a free citizen can keep tabs on a government supposedly responsible to him.

Our own century has witnessed the distortions which a government-controlled press can impose on a nation. We need only think of the fact that the Russian people have not been informed that their own government has resumed nuclear testing to see how the press can be used not only to form but to control public opinion.

But just how free, in practice, is our free press? It is true that newspaper editors claim to be horrified by the amount of sponsor-control exercised over TV programs. But how much of this horror is just a bit hypocritical considering the amount of advertiser-control over what goes into the columns of a newspaper?

Then, too, just how free is a press in which small, independent newspapers are constantly being swallowed up into chains? How free is a press in which apparently competing papers, as in Chicago, are actually under the same management? Is it all the fault of the press itself? Or must we, the reading public, share some of the blame?

Why, for instance, is it impossible for a country the size of the United States to support a single Catholic daily newspaper? It has been tried at least twice and each attempt has failed miserably.

Is it, perhaps, because newspaper readers do not want to be informed but would much rather be entertained by what they read? Perhaps it is because the public always gets just what it deserves that we have precisely the sort of press we deserve.

"Freedom of the Press" is not just an academic slogan or lecture-title; it is a vital issue in a free society which wants to stay free. The MacDougall lecture should furnish clear insight into these problems.

Gridders lose finale to State, 13-9

By PAUL NELSON

The Indiana State Sycamores pushed the Pumas into last place in the ICC with a 13-9 victory in a game played at Terre Haute, Saturday, the season finale for both teams.

Key fumbles, pass interceptions and penalties plagued the St. Joe offense and caused the Pumas to miff four scoring opportunities in the first half.

Early in the first period St. Joe launched an attack which drove down to the State 28 yard line, but a five yard penalty and a six yard loss forced the Joemen to punt from the Sycamore's own 33 yard line.

Minutes later the Big Red threatened again from a first and ten position on the Sycamore 32. However, a penalty set the ball back on the State 49 and Moyese Williams intercepted a pass thrown by St. Joe QB Dave Beam to end the Puma threat.

In the second quarter SJC halfback John Mirocha returned a State punt 57 yards to the Sycamore 13 yard line. Phil Zera moved the ball to the one, but then fullback Denny Mudd fumbled into the hands of State defender Williams, who brought the ball out to his own 37 yard line.

Before the half ended the Pumas again gained control of the ball on downs on their own 30. The St. Joe offense made little headway and Dave Beam punted from his own 32. State halfback Lloyd Robbs fumbled the kick on the Sycamore 12 and St. Joe recovered. The Puma offense stalled on the Indiana State 8 yard line, and Rich Ostrowski kicked a 25 yard field goal to give the lead to St. Joe at the half 3-0.

Midway through the third period the Sycamores climaxed a drive from their own 22 to the St. Joe 20 with a 25 yard touchdown pass from quarterback Gil Fujawa to halfback Robbs. Pat Jones kicked the extra point.

Early in the fourth quarter the Statesmen mounted another offensive from the Puma 35 and in six plays halfback Jon Pope scored from the seven yard line. Jones' attempted PAT was blocked.

Denny Anderson then took command of the Puma attack and led St. Joe to the Sycamore 10 yard line with 5 pass completions. Dennis Mudd scored from the 10, but his attempt to run the extra points was stopped.

With less than two minutes remaining in the game the Pumas advanced into scoring position on the State 33 yard line with two more Anderson ariels, but an interception by quarterback Bob Clements gave the ball to State on their three yard line and the clock ran out.

The Pumas gained 113 yards rushing and 121 yards passing for a total of 234 yards. Indiana State gained 149 yards on the ground and 38 in the air for a total of 187 yards.

Seniors Dick Blackmore, Dennis Mudd, Tom Drennan, Tom Thoma, Dick Hagye, Ed Ryan and Dave Beam made their last appearance for the Pumas on Saturday. Otto Lehmann, also a senior, was sidelined earlier in the season with a leg injury.

Alumni tilt Sunday opens net schedule

By TOM FLETCHALL

On Sunday, Nov. 19, at 2:30 p.m., St. Joe will be given a preview of its 1961-62 basketball team. At that time the Pumas will battle an alumni team composed of such notables as Bobby Williams, Dan Rogovich, Ron Holstein, Al Whitlow and Jim Koehler. Also included on the alumni squad will be Jack Finnegan, George Lux, Ray Banary, John O'Neil, Jim Elbert and Greg Jancich.

Preceding the varsity-alumni game will be an "Old Timers" contest pitting a number of graduated Joemen against one another. This will begin at 1:15.

On Dec. 2 St. Joe will open its regular basketball schedule by traveling to Valpo. The Pumas will then return home to open here against Chicago Teachers on Dec. 4.

Valpo, who beat the Pumas twice last season, has last year's entire starting lineup returning, plus a group of outstanding sophomores. Leading the Crusaders will be an exceptional pair of guards, Jim Zwiefel and Fran Clements, plus a fine forward, Chuck Kriston. These three men were Valpo's leading scorers a year ago.

Chicago Teachers is a new team on the Puma schedule. They are coached by Spin Salario, former mentor at powerful Chicago Marshall high school.

Coach Holstein's Pumas have five returning lettermen: guards Jim Crowley and Bill Braunbeck, center Jerry Patchman, and forwards Mickey Clark and Art Voellinger. The rest of the squad includes: guards George Post, Lynn Weber, John Sorg and George Wisz; center John Lau; and forwards Jim O'Donnell and Phil Bergen. However, Wisz and Bergen will not be eligible until the second semester.

Coach Holstein, in his first year as head coach, feels the Pumas will surprise a lot of people this year. He added that the team has shown marked improvement over last year, especially in defense.

Bowlers drop 7-4 match to IIT, prepare to meet Valpo Dec. 3

St. Joe's bowling team dropped a 7-4 decision to Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) Sunday in a match that was much closer than the score. The Pumas lost series, 4510-4507, and also lost two individual games 947-944 and 928-919.

St. Joe lost another game 909-810, and won two games, 977-900, and 857-826. According to the rules of the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference, in which the teams participate, each game is worth two points and the series one point.

Leading the Pumas were Rich Hansen with a 942 five-game series, followed by captain Wally Nedza with 941, Steve Jupinka with 932, Pat DelCotto with 864 and Harry Hanson with 828.

Ron Tenggren was high man for IIT with 964.

High games for St. Joe were: Jupinka, 224 and 210; Hanson, 200; DelCotto, 207; Nedza, 199.

The Pumas have now won ten points and lost 12 in two MIBC matches. This should be good for third place in the six-team league according to Nedza.

In two contests, Jupinka and Nedza have averaged 186, DelCotto 180, Hansen and Hanson 176 and Joe Fliszar 151.

Next action for the St. Joe bowlers is Dec. 3 when they travel to Valpo to take on the Crusaders.

Butler cops fourth straight title; Valpo second, Pumas last Butler's powerful Bulldogs won an unprecedented fourth straight ICC championship Saturday night when they crushed the Evansville Aces 30-7 at Evansville.

The Bulldogs gained 374 yards to 81 for Evansville, and held the Aces to -9 yards rushing. Butler TD's were scored by Larry Shook (2) John Brown and Phil Mercer. The Aces tally was scored on a 95 kickoff return by Ron Tepool.

Evansville ended the season with a 4-5 record and a 3-3 ICC mark. The Bulldogs, 8-0 and 6-0 in the conference, will attempt to complete an undefeated season Saturday, and set a new school record for consecutive wins, 15, when they take on Washington of St. Louis in the Butler Bowl.

The Valpo Crusaders clinched second place in the ICC Saturday by dumping DePauw 35-14 at Valpo. Dick Pohlman paced Valpo with two TD's and John Knight scored one TD and added three conversions.

Valpo finished the year with a 7-2 record and was 5-1 in the ICC. DePauw ended up 2-4 in the conference, and will try for a plus .500 record when they put their 4-4 mark on the line against Wabash Saturday.

At Terre Haute, second half Indiana State touchdowns by Lloyd Robbs and John Pope gave the Sycamores a 13-9 win over St. Joe. The win left St. Joe in the cellar of the ICC with a 1-7 record, 1-5 in the ICC. State finished just above St. Joe at 2-6 and 2-4. Dennis Mudd's TD and Rich Ostrowski's field goal gave the Pumas their score.

In other action Saturday Ohio Northern scored in every period to defeat Ball State 49-20 at Defiance, Ohio in a non conference tilt. Terry Bonta scored twice and Jim Biltz once for the Cardinals who ended the season 2-4 in the ICC and 2-5-1 overall.

The following ICC standings are final, but Butler and DePauw have non-conference games remaining.

Varsity Views '61 Pumas were not that bad

By BOB ROSPENDA

Due to lack of depth and experience St. Joe has just finished one of its poorest football seasons in recent years.

This year there were just too many mistakes and too many bad breaks. Add to this the overall team inexperience and you end up with an inevitably dismal year.

The 1-7 season record looks bad, but at least it was a little better than the winless season many authorities had St. Joe pegged for.

Although this was a rebuilding year, Head Coach Ed Dwyer did not consider it a successful season.

According to Dwyer, "I had at least hoped that we would break even. Although we were a young team, I thought we should have done better this year."

"Of course I was not displeased with the spirit of the team. The guys were always hustling and they never quit."

Commenting on the squad's inexperience Dwyer continued, "In the early stages of the season the guys were green and had not played together before, so for a while they did not work as a group. Toward the middle of the season they finally started clicking, but then lack of depth and a few injuries hurt us. As a matter of fact, in the last game against Indiana State we had so many injuries we were lucky to finish the game."

Offense was a big problem this year, and one of the main offensive weaknesses was the lack of good breakaway backs.

Dwyer related, "Mudd and some of our other backs had good power, but they were not the shifty type of runners who could consistently break away for long runs."

"Also, taking nothing away from Beam and Anderson, we did not have a quarterback who could consistently throw that long, 'home run' type of pass. This weakened us also."

The picture next year is filled with question marks. Most of the first string will be returning next year, but will the Pumas be able to improve upon this year's record to any great extent?

"It's true that most of the team will be back next year," said Dwyer, "but it's hard to say whether there will be any radical improvement with only one year of added experience. We will still have to find some good breakaway backs. We will have to look to this year's freshman team for some added depth."

The "shotgun" added a certain amount of spark to the offense in the later part of the season, but the only time it was really effective was in the DePauw contest.

"We may use it somewhat next year," said Dwyer, "but for the most part we will run out of the T and the wing T. Actually the only reason we used the shotgun this year was to shake up certain teams and spread the defense."

In all fairness it should be stated that the Pumas faced a very tough schedule this past year. The ICC is getting stronger every year, and the two non-conference games were with teams of a very high caliber. It should also be noted that four of the five Puma ICC losses were decided by a margin of only one touchdown or less. A team that can come this close is not a bad team.

Chi club to hold penny carnival

The Chicago club of St. Joseph's college will hold a free admission "penny carnival" in the Rec hall during the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 18 from 1 to 4. This date has been selected inasmuch as it is a mixer weekend and the carnival will provide afternoon entertainment for those on campus.

Club president Dennis Kosobucki stated that plans call for a total of 17 booths to be set up. The various booths will feature such games as nickle bingo, fish-bowl throw, coke bottle bowling and a Cinderella contest for the girls. The cost to play at these booths will range from 1 to 5 cents.

Each booth will be apportioned with winning tickets which players will accumulate as they play at each booth. The players will then redeem their tickets at the prize booth where the top four male and top four female winners will be determined. These winners will then be announced and the prizes awarded at the mixer to be held in the evening.

The Very Rev. Herbert Linenberger, C.P.P.S., Moderator General of the Society of the Precious Blood, is pictured breaking ground last week for the new faculty residence hall. Father Linenberger, whose headquarters are in Rome is visiting the United States to help celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Order's major seminary, St. Charles, at Carthagen, Ohio.

Business writing course begun

On November 9, SAM began a short intensive institute dealing with business communications. The non-credit course is designed to teach students to write brief, effective letters dealing with business, applications for employment, etc. Construction of a personal data sheet for interview purposes will also be covered.

The institute will meet each Thursday evening for about an hour.

SC discusses mixer, health, U.N.

Discussions of the financing of mixers, the position of the Student Council with regard to the health center, and of the delegation to the United Nations workshop highlighted Monday's meeting of the Council in the Rec hall.

Hank Krigbaum and Jerry Mueller, co-chairman of the dance committee, announced that of the eight girls' schools invited to Saturday's mixer, only four—Nazareth, Mundelein, Marian and St. Mary-of-the-Woods—have accepted. The other schools were forced to decline because of conflicting schedules.

It was suggested that the cost of attending the mixers kept many girls from attending. Treasurer John Lulewicz replied that except for transportation expenses, each girl attending a mixer here is charged only $2.00, the money going into the Council fund.

On the other hand, Lulewicz continued, the Council pays for the lodging of the girls ($3 apiece), and for their meals (about $2.50 apiece). Thus, he said, the Council actually spends approximately $3.50 per girl attending each mixer, and spent nearly $750 for the last mixer. As a result of this discussion, the suggestion that the $2 fee be eliminated or reduced was overruled.

President Dennis Mudd said that the Upperclassmen band will play for the mixer. It was also revealed that this will be the last mixer of the first semester.

A request that the Council share with the Administration the cost of five new hospital beds for the infirmary was tabled. The consensus of Council members was that though this is not strictly a Council function, it is possible that leftover funds at the end of the year could be used for this purpose. (see editorial, page 2).

George Marchal spoke for the students who attended the Collegiate Conference for the United Nations workshop in New York last weekend. President Mudd said the Council will set up a date for a panel discussion of the findings of the workshop so that all may learn of what went on. Details of the trip will appear in the next issue of Stuff, Dec. 6.

In other action Monday, the Council:

Confirmed Dec. 9 as the date for the Christmas dance, and tentatively planned to contact a band. It was noted that all 180 tickets for the dance have been purchased.

Was informed that prom committees have been formed and that about 12 bands are being considered.
